Boosting the Economy by Promoting More Bicycling: Discounts-for-Bicycling Programs in the U.S.

This fact sheet was compiled by journalist Rebecca Robinson from information available on 4/16/12 about the nation's bicycling incentive programs. Robinson is a multiple award-winning journalist, including first place in the Associated Press Oregon Broadcasters Competition, Public Affairs Journalism for "The Rural Economy Project" broadcast by Oregon Public Broadcasting.

Some of America's most cost-effective initiatives to inspire people to ride bicycles involve teaming up with businesses and organizations to offer discounts when people ride a bicycle. Here are three leading programs from around the nation:

☞ Monterey County, CA: Launched in 2009, the HER Helmet Thursdays project provides 10 to 50% discounts on Thursdays to people who ride a bike. HER refers to Mother Earth, who benefits from more people biking. H-E-R is also an acronym for the types of participating businesses and organizations—Hotels, Educational and Entertainment venues, Restaurants, and related places. Helmet serves as evidence of biking (no need for coupons, plastic cards, etc.), and alternate evidence (e.g., bike pump) is allowed. HER Helmet Thursdays is appropriate for and can be adapted to other geographic locations. HER Helmet Thursdays receives no funding from local, state, or federal government entities or other organizations. HER Helmet Thursdays was created and launched in Monterey County as a public service by Bicycling Monterey, with no fees to the people who bike or to the participating businesses and organizations.

Over 200 participants offering discounts when you bike. No membership fee.

☞ Long Beach, CA has a Bike Friendly Business District program made possible through a federal grant administered through the Los Angeles County Department of Public Health. Launched in 2010 and dubbed the nation's first Bike Friendly Business Districts, the Long Beach program includes options, such as availability of bike parking, that qualify participating businesses to be in the program, as does the option of offering discounts through the Bike Saturdays component. Bike Saturdays offers a percentage discount or other deal to people who bike to participating spots on Saturdays.

Over 145 participants offering discounts when you bike. No membership fee.

☞ New York City's Transportation Alternatives Bike Friendly Business Program is supported by the J.M. Kaplan Fund, the Independence Community Foundation, and Two Trees Management Co, LLC. The program includes options to qualify as a bike-friendly business, including discounts at over 50 participating businesses to TA members who arrive by bike. A business can also qualify to be a bike friendly business by supporting local initiatives to bring bike lanes or bike parking to their neighborhood. TA also offers Big Apple and New Jersey members discounts at 118 bike shops in the five boroughs, Staten Island, Long Island, Westchester, and select NJ locations. TA further offers discounts to TA members (cyclists, users of mass transit, and others) who show their TA card when making a purchase at nearly 200 additional businesses.

Over 50 participants offering discounts when you bike. Annual membership: $40.
